MICHAEL HUERTA TO ADDRESS FLIGHT TRAINING CONFERENCE

FAA Administrator Huerta will discuss issues critical to flight training at Redbird Migration

Austin, TX (September 30, 2015) – Redbird Flight announced today that Michael Huerta, the administrator of the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), will join the year's largest gathering of industry professionals at the Migration Flight Training Conference on Wednesday, November 4 at Redbird Skyport in San Marcos, TX. Presenting the conference keynote, Michael Huerta will address topics important to the industry, including changes to regulatory policies and the impact of advancing aviation technology.

Now in its fifth year, the Migration Flight Training Conference has become the yearly focal point for the best flight schools and universities to discuss innovative instructional techniques, newly developing technologies, and successful marketing strategies. Included among this year's conference topics are direct-to-consumer marketing strategies, flight analytics, and the ImagineFlight affiliate network.

The Redbird Migration Conference is open to all flight training organizations worldwide by visiting migration-conference.com and requesting an invitation.
